The Midwest is home to several high-ranking colleges with some of the largest student populations in the country.

And because they are in the Midwest, they are also dealing with one of the harshest winter environments in the United States, with heavy snowfalls-often approaching blizzard conditions-and some of the coldest average temperatures in the nation. Messy climate conditions along with a large student body can really take a toll on carpets. When facility managers at one highly regarded Midwest college decided it was time to select a new carpet extractor system, they chose the ECO 500 from CFR.

The ECO 500 is an upright carpet extractor that filters and recycles cleaning solution, improving worker productivity and reducing chemical costs. And-most appealing to the university's facility managers-with 500 psi, this system has the power to clean even the most soiled carpets.

About CFR, a Tacony Company CFR designs and manufactures a complete range of eco-friendly carpet cleaning systems and high performance specialty tools with an innovative, patented technology that is radically different from other carpet cleaning systems. Continuous Flow Recycling (CFR) technology provides superior moisture-controlled cleaning, faster drying times, and increased cleaning productivity that is unmatched compared to standard carpet extractors on the market today. Through a state-of-the-art recycling filtration system, coupled with moisture-controlled atomization wand technology to minimize carpet moisture, CFR is the Greenest carpet cleaning system in the industry today.
